To the House of Representatives

We respectfully ask the House of Representatives to urge the New Zealand Government to address climate change through:

- Setting a target, to be reached as soon as possible, for greenhouse gases in the atmosphere to be no more than 350 parts per million of CO2 equivalents, as the basis for New Zealand policy in legislation and international negotiations
- Taking into account the latest scientific research
- Working in a spirit of partnership with New Zealand communities and other countries.

We make this request out of deep concern for all those already suffering from the effects of climate change, and for current and future generations.

We also personally commit to supporting this goal through our responsible use of resources, as part of local, national and international efforts to avert climate change disaster.
