

Coconuts grow on tall palm trees.

Here is Lawrence picking the coconuts from up high.

We carry the coconuts from the garden on our head.

We can carry a lot.

The coconut tree has palm leaves to make house roofs.

The coconut has milk inside.

We use the insides of the coconut for food.

The pigs eat the coconuts for food. Clam shells make good dishes.

Here is a baby coconut shoot growing out of an old coconut shell.

It is fun climbing down the tree. Can you do this?

Some trees have signs. This tambu sign tells us no climbing trees here.

Families use coconut milk in their food.

Thank God for His goodness to us.

Thank you God for giving us...
