

The Leopard's vision

Hello! I am the leopard and I regret to say,
All of the horrible things that are happening to my kind today
Everyday, I run and run, fearing for my life
Not knowing whether I will be shot or killed with a knife

Humans try to injure me for their entertainment or my skin
I wished it was the end but in reality, it is just about to begin
I have done no wrong yet I still have to suffer
Life in the desert is just getting harder and rougher

They torture me with such brutality and cruelty
To benefit their fashion statements, including their beauty
Humans should try to save the earth if they want something beautiful
Instead of ignoring something so irrefutable

Instead of cutting the trees of my land,
Take the time to learn about it and understand
That life is important, special and dear
And though making the earth a better place to live may take some time, we need to persevere

Imagine how happy the earth will be once people start caring
She would start crying from the sight of us joyful and sharing

So since I have now told you about my visions
It is time for you to make a decision

Will you help the environment or attack?
Whatever you decide will make a large impact

Always remember that your decisions matter
Since they determine whether this world flourishes or shatters
I have one last message to say
Before I leave for the day:

Help me stop this dangerous plot
And save the only planet we got

By: Gaea Mitra
Edited with Destinee,